This attack is short lived.

RUGBY

STAR v. PATEA

The Star v. Patea match was held last month and while Star won the match with a final score of 27 to 9, it was not generally very exciting rugby. In fact it was not really a great deal of credit to Star that they did win. Club rugby of this standard we hope will not be repeated.

Patea take the ball from a line-out.

The ruck degenerates into a heaving pile of bodies.

Mountain Man

a ballad by TREVOR CRABTREE

"Buy me a beer and I'll tell you some lies of the wild outback where the Bush Hawk flies". Well they bought him a beer, in fact gave him a jug, For the tale that he told proved him no city mug. Downing his ale he wiped froth from his lips, "I'll tell of a man who was all log and no chips".

His face looked quite frozen, his chest showing bare, Frost all a sparkle on the thick body hair. He stood crouched in the door of the old Alpine hut like the rugged square Kauri that no man will cut. We gazed up in awe, holding a part beer can for we never had met such a huge Mountain Man.

His eyes seemed to glisten like the sun through a fog "Could either of you b.....s spare a dry man some grog?" Taking one from my pack I tossed him the thing, he caught it in one hand, with his teeth pulled the ring. It lasted a moment. "Could you do that again? I've been shot in the guts and it sure dulls the pain".

The second quickly followed the fate of the first with both of us wondering where his stomach had burst. Drawing near to the fire he threw down the tin

'Mountain Man' is an excerpt from a soon to be published paperback called "Buy Me A Beer (and I'll tell you some lies)'"

The paperback consists of stories and ballads about the New Zealand outback. It is written entirely by Trevor Crabtree and is to be published by Annabel Publications, P.O. Box 427, New Plymouth.

T'was then we both saw what his right hand held in. Giving us a big smile he shrugged out of his pack, "I know what you're thinking, but she's right Jack".

I have here a sack needle and old bailing twine things aren't so bad, I've kept what is mine" Half an hour later with intestines in place he started his sewing with my spare bootlace "I get very annoyed when the damn things they itch". as he finished a line of herring bone stitch.

"Well that's that, he said "Now I'll make me a stew I always get hungry when I've had one or two". We offered him ours for I must truly relate we couldn't have touched a thing on our plate. Those Mountain Men are really bred tough They're damn hard to stop when the going is rough.

"That's all to my story and now I'll shove off I must see my doctor about a slight cough".

The training is tough, (one of the toughest in fact) but if you think that you can stand the rigours of Kyokushinkai style karate, you will find the rewards are more than worthwhile.

Ike Robin was a popular singer too.

BIKING TO RAISE FUNDS

One Sunday afternoon we were enjoying a casual drive around the province, when, seemingly out of nowhere came a bunch of cyclists, panting and generally making hard work of the going. Well, this was all explained away when we discovered that the cyclists were members of the New Plymouth Old Boys senior fourth Rugby team and that they were biking their way around the mountain on a hundred mile hike, to raise fund for the club.

As a promotion, prior to the show, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs made an appearance at the new Merrilands Shopping Centre. The children who flocked to see them, were thrilled with the antics of the dwarfs and even more delighted when they threw sweets to them. We thought it a pity that High School children rushed the sweets, trampling many of the younger children who were in their way.

FRIENDLY VISIT

Members of several Judo clubs, including Wellington, Palmerston North, Hawera and the two New Plymouth clubs (NP Judo Club and NP Judo Academy) all got together last month for a friendly social visit. This all took place at the New Plymouth Judo Club Dojo in Currie Street.

After some friendly 'sparring' on the mat during the Saturday afternoon, a Hangi was provided to feed the hungry Judo-ka and this was followed by a social evening.

FROM THE PAST

Pictured below is one of the old Waiwakaiho Bridges. This wooden structure, while not being the very first bridge over the river, was certainly an early one and stood for many years. Now of course the bridge over the Waiwakaiho is again a focus point as the present structure carries the only city inlet from the north and is blamed as one of the major causes for traffic pile up in the area.

CAR RALLY

Staff from most New Plymouth Grocer's stores took part in a Car Rally last month. The Rally started at Dalton's at Strandon and took those who participated on a journey that ran a distance of some 32 miles and was timed to take a matter of two and a half hours. Perhaps needless to say, a few found the going a little rough at times and got, or nearly got, lost. Pictured are a few of the vehicles and drivers at the start of the event.

4th GRADE — ARAMOHO ROVERS (WANGANUI)
v. CENTRAL

This fourth grade match between Wanganui's Aramocho Rovers and the New Plymouth Central team, was played at The New Plymouth Racecourse last month as one of some eleven matches between Wanganui and New Plymouth soccer teams. Central won the match.

NP BOYS HIGH v. ST PATRICK'S COLLEGE
(WELLINGTON)

A few exciting moments were witnessed in the first of the season defences by NP Boys High School for the Moascar Cup. This match was against St Patrick's College of Silverstream, Wellington. Boys High retained the cup with a 6 to 3 win but it was only in the last few minutes of play that they managed to convert a try and thereby win the match.

From a spectator viewpoint, playing for touch is something that we see far too much of.

NEW PLYMOUTH CITY v. GLEN CARRON
(PALMERSTON NORTH)

While New Plymouth City won this match one nil, no one would credit them with having won a hard fought and well played match. The game was both uninteresting and poorly played and both teams need to pull their socks up if they wish to improve the standard of soccer at their grade.

"Nuthin' Fancy"

just released by PYE

ROLLING STONE

Lynyrd Skynyrd
Charlie Daniels
Houston Coliseum
April 6th, 1975

by Michael Point
Playing in Houston less than a year ago, the bottom-billed Skynyrd used tightly organized rock & roll power to severely scorch second act Marshall Tucker and headliner Joe Walsh. On this return visit, they showed a selfout crowd of 12,000 that, with the Allmans in retreat as semi-mythical heroes, they now occupy the top spot in the Dixie rock structure.

Despite their draws and aggressive stances, Lynyrd Skynyrd is not actually in the mainstream of Southern music; they dish out straight-ahead songs and rarely, if ever, wander into the familiar Southern rock terrain of end-less boogies and laid-back jams. Their rock & roll, with punchy, three-guitar licks and Ronnie Van Zant's strong and surly vocals, makes Skynyrd probably the only Southern band capable of retaining the interest of, say, a New Yorker strong on Bad Company.

Opening with a screaming guitar lead, "I Ain't the One" prepared the audience for a steady succession of equally energetic numbers, songs like J. J. Cale's "Call Me the Breeze," "Gimme Three Steps" and the best of their new material from Nuthin' Fancy. Instead of indulging in some sort of triple lead rave-up, guitarists Ed King, Allen Collins and Gary Rossington preferred to hang back and reinforce the rhythm section (Leon Wilkeson on bass, Artemus Pyle playing percussion and Billy Powell on keyboards) when not soloing. By the time they began "Sweet Home Alabama," the audience was frenzied enough to make a good old-fashioned rush onto the stage. The Skynyrd equipment crew made a gallant—if less than gentlemanly—effort to clear the stage, but after two encores the band abandoned the battle zone.

MAY 22, 1975

Earlier, Charlie Daniels offered a preview of what looked like another powerhouse act from the South. Playing a solid set sparked by sizzling guitar, the band, hot and hungry like Skynyrd a year ago, captured the audience early in their set. Closing with Daniels's fiddle renditions of "The South's Gonna Do It" and "Orange Blossom Special," they, like Skynyrd, left the audience with positive memories for the next time around.

ABOUT CHARLEY PRIDE

Country and Western fans in Taranaki were treated to a great night earlier this month when Charley Pride performed at the New Plymouth Opera House.

Pride would be one of the most successful and popular Country-Western performers today. Not since Jim Reeves (whose records still tend to dominate some of the country charts) has there been a performer of this artist's calibre and popularity.

He has over twenty albums to his credit and something over nine of these have reached the Gold category. In addition his singles releases have seen incredible successes—take for instance his 'Kiss an Angel Good Morning'.

Charley Pride was raised in the Mississippi cotton-fields along with ten brothers and a sister. He was born in Sledge, some sixty miles south of Memphis. At the age of seventeen the young Pride was playing ball in the Negro American League with Detroit and with the Memphis Red Sox. Then came the Army's two year stint during which time he met and married his wife Rozene. With de-mobbing he returned to baseball and made it to the Majors in 1961. At this time he lived in Montana, and off season he worked for the Anaconda Minings Zinc complex and sang as a nightclub entertainer at night.

Towards the end of 1963 country star, Red Sovine happened to catch Charley Pride's act and arranged for a Nashville recording session. Chet Atkins was so impressed with the session that he signed Charley to a long term RCA contract and Charley first released a single in 1965, called 'Snakes Crawl at Night'.

The following year, Pride's recording of 'Just Between You and Me' won him a Grammy Nomination for the 'Best Country and Western Male Vocal Performance'.

NEW ALBUMS

LYNYRD SKYNYRD...Nuthin' Fancy.....MCA 7884

This third Album release by a solidly based Southern rock band (the one with the funny name) is certainly worthy of attention. The best track by far is their 'Railroad Song' but interest will be held in a comparison with their earlier work. It will be remembered that much interest was created by the release of their first album in New Zealand.

That album was an import and although the numbers brought into the country were not great but it was enough to create considerable national interest in the group.

THE MAORI VOLCANICS....Live....Revolution 1001.

What a fantastic album. This wins my vote as the best locally produced LP of the year. Of course the group have got a lot going for them. They would be one of the most professional bands yet produced by New Zealand, and this professionalism shows in all of their work. They are a truly world class slow-band and very able ambassadors for this country. This album shows them at their best—beautiful vocal work, humour, and excellent musical backing. The album was recorded 'live' at Wellington's Broderick Inn. That is side two was. Side One was recorded in the studio.

CAROL DOUGLAS...The Carol Douglas Album...
.....RCA 1-0931

What an exciting new discovery Carol Douglas is. She has that certain vocal magic that so many negro entertainers seem to have. Opening track is 'Doctor's Orders' and that is my fave track on the album. If you see this release in your record store, Get the assistant to play the track, I'm sure you'll find her as exciting as I have.

TANYA TUCKER.....MCA 7951

Tanya is a new country and western singer. While we must describe her as a very competent singer, we do not find anything terribly exceptional about her work. She performs excellent arrangements of material like 'Lizzie and the Rainman' the Everly's 'When Will I Be Loved' and 'The King of Country Music' If country is your bag, then she would be worth recommending to you, but as we said, we do not find anything rave about her, just good, well polished performances.

TARANAKI v. WELLINGTON

MANGAMINGI DOG TRIALS

For only the second time in the history of the movement the National Sheep Dog Trials were this year held in Taranaki.

The event took place at Mangamingi and a good selection of entries were received from all parts of the country in most events.

Pictured are a few of the events and some who participated in the Trials.

The short head and yard event was won by B. Hill of Hastings.

Simon, is owned by Mr R W Northcott of Urenui. Simon who was entered in the Trials, has done extremely well in the past year and this then becomes a matter of even a dog overcoming disabilities. He was hurt as a puppy and lost the sight of an eye. This disability has meant that Simon tends to having difficulty in judgement at times, especially when sheep are on his right.

Jim Blinkborne did extremely well. Jim is Head Shepherd on Tererwhiti Station just out of Wellington.

Claude, with owner Mr L R Hoole of Manutuke, waits to drive the sheep through the course.

'AN EVENING TO REMEMBER'

A function, held to raise funds for the 'Save the Children Fund' was seen in Hawera's Wesley Hall last month. Called 'Evening to Remember' the event raised over $300 for the fund and took the form of a parade of people and fashions from various countries of the world.

Representing Switzerland is Cheree Devadbar and Dean Donovan.

Helena Sarris portrayed Russia.

For India, was Sarla Jhinicu & Kiran Rama

Cheryl Devadbar represented Hawaii.

Jenny Devadbar represented Japan.

PATEA v. CLIFTON

It was exciting rugby for spectators when Patea met the Clifton side in a match held at Patea last month. Clifton won the match by 13 to 3 in some dashing displays of gamesmanship which had the fans on the very edge of their seats through most of the match.

Patea's Hurley in possession but that is quickly disputed.
