

CLOTHES MAKETH THE MAN

By far New Plymouth's most rapidly expanding business, Guardsman Limited, could easily be New Zealand's foremost men's clothing manufacturers. Already ahead in the field of sports jackets, Guardsman manufacture high quality sports clothes as well as heavy and light-weight suits. Seventy per cent of the manufactured garments are sports jackets, proof enough of the success of this particular article. LEFT—The finished garment! These suits are comparable to any, and in the main better than most. Here Joe Collier inspects the finished coat before it leaves the factory. BELOW LEFT—Foreman in the drafting room, Mr O. W. Johnson, has a fine team of willing workers. BELOW—The production line begins with the drafting of patterns for the various articles. Bryan Stevens chalks in a sleeve. BOTTOM RIGHT—Irene Johnson, who is responsible for stay flexing, does her part in producing a top quality garment.

Ron Sewell is pictured drafting the pattern for light-weight trousers, another speciality of the factory. BELOW—Each piece of material cut has to be labelled for size, pattern, etc. Karen Whittaker operates the Soabar machine which does this task in a precise manner. ABOVE RIGHT—Graeme Hooper cuts canvases with an electric saw before the pieces are transferred to the sewing room via a lift. RIGHT—Almost complete, Katherine Dravitski's task is working an intricate machine which makes the buttonholes. BELOW RIGHT—Huia Slatern puts the lining in the pockets before the garment is sewn together.

Out of approximately 110 employees, 85 of the staff at Guardsman are ladies who are either involved with sewing or the administration side of the business. It is amazing to see the co-operation between workers in these clockwork-like operations. New styles and designs are continuously being worked on, ideas coming from television and overseas. These new styles have a decided impact on the young in particular, although dads and even grandads are, what is commonly known as, "getting with it." Gone are the days of sloppy dress for men — today they are more fashion conscious, which calls for an all-out effort on the part of the manufacturers, like Guardsman.

TOP—The pieces of material are fed down the production line in boxes on conveyor belts. When one process has been finished it is passed along to the next seamstress for her particular job. ABOVE LEFT—There is always someone around to help workers if they get stuck. Here foreman Ted Skipper gives Marti Laurus advice on the hand-sewing of the almost-finished article. ABOVE RIGHT—These girls sure knew their jobs, in fact they were not only efficient at their various tasks, but most particular with the finest detail. Dawn Pelk would be the envy of many would-be sewers the way she quickly fixed the sleeves into suit coats. RIGHT—Machinery has taken the place of manual work and this shaping machine leaves no room for fault. We think one would have to travel a long way to be able to match the quality and variety of clothes made by Guardsman, and they are all produced in our own city.

Tennis Champs

Coats and gumboots, rather than skimpy skirts and tennis shoes, were the order of the day for the North Taranaki tennis championships held in New Plymouth. Play was delayed for a couple of hours due to the amount of rain on the courts. LEFT—Peter McDeel returns a forehand drive to the other side of the courts. RIGHT—Pulling, to return the ball, was John Lovell. FAR RIGHT—Angela Gidding had a powerful serve. BELOW LEFT—Almost falling in an attempt to reach the ball is Linda Anderson. BELOW RIGHT—Waiting for play are Taranaki seed players Bruce Sim and Graeme Green. BOTTOM LEFT—Getting rid of the water was the chore of Chris Ingle and Alan Knight. BELOW RIGHT—Sheila Dwyer, Mary O'Connell and Colleen Ford dressed for the cool weather.

MAUI 1 CHRISTENED

Bang went another bottle of bubbly (and nobody thought to bring a bucket to catch the spill!) when the Harbour Board's new tug Maui 1 was christened by Lady Blyde, wife of the board's chairman, at a short ceremony on Newton King wharf. Built in Whangarei, the tug will be involved in various activities around the harbour but will mainly be responsible for ship berthing, though her fire fighting capabilities are second to none. BELOW LEFT—The champagne is positioned by a crew member in preparation for the ceremony. BELOW RIGHT—Looking very much like a gun, the fine fire fighting equipment was demonstrated before the tug left the wharf. BOTTOM—Part of the small official crowd gathered to watch the proceedings.

Because of the manoeuvrability and power of Maui 1, small boat owners and water skiers have been warned of the danger of the thrust coming from the tug's propellers. One hundred and fifty feet is the area affected by the thrust which is powerful enough to capsize smaller vessels which can change direction in a matter of seconds.

WEDDING BELLS

Above: ROBINSON-GOWER. At St Joseph's Catholic Church, New Plymouth, Patricia Ann, fifth daughter of Mr and Mrs L. J. Gower, New Plymouth, to Terrence Albert, youngest son of Mr and Mrs A. Robinson, New Plymouth. Matron of honour was Kathy Fletcher, Waitara, and Maria Gower, sister of the bride, New Plymouth, was bridesmaid. Michael Robinson, brother of the groom, New Plymouth, was best man. The flower-girl was Michelle Ruakere, New Plymouth. Future home, New Plymouth. (Vogue Studios).

Below: SOUTHCOLME-PRINCE. At the Presbyterian Church, Patea, Patricia, daughter of Mr and Mrs A. H. Prince, Patea, to Leslie, son of Mr and Mrs L. A. Southcombe, Manutahi. Maureen Julian was chief bridesmaid, and Lorraine Julian was bridesmaid. Best man was Russell Prince, and groomsman was Barry Southcombe. The flower-girls were Catherine Fountain and Kerry Prince. Future home, Manutahi. (David Paul Studios).

INTER-SCHOOL ATHLETICS

Honours were even at the inter-school sports between Central and Moturoa Primary Schools held at Central playground. Although the day was intended to be a social outing for the visiting team, Moturoa put up some stiff opposition, adding an element of competition between pupils and teachers alike.

ABOVE—While waiting for instructions to move, one group at the high jump had some time to wait. RIGHT—The relay proved to be the most popular with competitors, those waiting yelling encouragement to their team mates. Mark Jeffrey (white shorts and singlet) takes the stick off Ann Parkes in one of the relays. BELOW LEFT—Round the peg goes Dianne Shute. BELOW CENTRE—Lynda Rae puts all her effort into this jump. BELOW RIGHT—Winner of one of the sprints was Kerry Saunders.

ANY OLD IRON?

$3000 RAISED AT BOULEVARD

A fantastic response from the public resulted in about $3000 being raised at the bargain boulevard arranged by the Stratford Lions Club and held recently.

The Memorial Hall carpark was literally covered with goods ranging from mirrors to a dressmaker's dummy, all except about half a dozen things going to new homes.

ABOVE—A hangi had been prepared for mid-morning and was well supported. Here a few volunteers uncover the popular kai. BELOW—Kids were everywhere, and insisted on climbing over the various goods and Sino and Paul Reweti were no exceptions. Both boys thoroughly enjoyed themselves having a game of chasing over a pile of wire looms. RIGHT—Advantage was taken in all areas of the seating available, and it appeared the mattresses must have been the softest, judging by the crowd they attracted. Here Michelle, Cindy and Justine Kawana try out a few of them. BELOW RIGHT—Putting themselves in Mum's place at the sewing machine were Tracey and Kim Rogers.

With expenses excluded, the auction was expected to have raised $2300 for some charitable organisation, a great effort on the part of the Lions Club who had obviously put in hours of hard work in preparation of a boulevard of this type.

ABOVE—A truck tray provided a stage for this musical group which gave three Maori items. Although relatively small, the group could be easily heard over the noise of the auction. RIGHT—Three old pianos

BRYAN MARSDEN — Sportsman Of The Year

Bryan Marsden was the recipient of this year's Sportsman of the Year award, recently presented at a special function at St Joseph's Youth Centre, New Plymouth. Bryan, the weight lifting association's nominee, won the title from 19 contestants, for which he received a handsome trophy, not only signifying his ability in his specific sport, but respect for the work carried out in pursuit of attaining higher honours.

Best man was Roy Bunyan, brother of the groom, Waitara. Groomsmen were Bruce Allen, Waitara, Jim Sirfarie, Auckland, and Fabian Bunyan, Waitara. Future home, Waitara. (Vogue Studios).

CALF (LAMB) DAY AT TARATA SCHOOL

Parents and children alike thoroughly enjoyed the calf day at Tarata School recently. Calf day — perhaps lamb day would be more appropriate as Tarata (for those of you who did not know) is in-country, behind Inglewood, where sheep are the dominant live-stock, although the number of calves on show was quite surprising. ABOVE LEFT—Grands and parents alike were equally interested in the judging. ABOVE RIGHT: While big brothers and sisters paraded their animals, Dean and Murray Leake and Brenton Corkill chose to play contractors in the sand. BELOW LEFT—Miles Waite had his lamb under full control. BELOW RIGHT: Two entries in the lamb section had a private conversation ... wonder if they were talking about the new schedule?

FINALS AT VOGELTOWN

To determine the winners of the speech and art competitions at Vogeltown Primary School, a final afternoon with presentations by the Mayoress of New Plymouth, Mrs D. V. Sutherland, was recently held.

This venture proved to be most successful for the teachers responsible. Out of a possible 400 pupils, 102 children took part in the speech competition, some having never said a poem before. Naturally, heats were necessary, and teachers had determined the various winners in age groups, and helped coach the final 33. They were given a list of possible poems, some proved more popular than others. By the end of the afternoon all parents must have been able to rattle off at least two of them. The art competition had been pre-judged, the title given being "A Maori Legend." These ranged from Maui fishing up New Zealand, to Hinemoa and Tutanekai. RIGHT—Receiving his certificate from Mrs Sutherland is Craig St George, who came second in the nine-year-olds. FAR RIGHT—Second in the seven-year-olds was Rachael Conibear. BELOW LEFT—Glenda Henderson was first in the seven-year-olds. BELOW CENTRE—First in the nine-year-olds was Vanessa Valentine. BELOW RIGHT—Cindy McGill receives her certificate for second place in the eight-year-olds.

MARRIED

At the Knox Presbyterian Church, Fitzroy, Alma Jessie, daughter of Mr and Mrs J. Mitchell, Papatoetoe, to Albert Richard, son of Mrs J. L. Wells, Warea, and the late Mr D. R. Wells. The bridesmaid was Jean Thompson, sister of the bride, Papatoetoe, and David Wells, New Plymouth, was best man. Future home, New Plymouth. (Norman Squire-Terry Finnerty).

Right: SHOTTER—REVELL.
At St Mary's Anglican Church, New Plymouth, Annette, only daughter of Mr and Mrs R. Revell, New Plymouth, to Graeme, third son of Mrs Shotter, New Plymouth and the late Mr L. M. Shotter. Chief bridesmaid was Lorraine Butler, New Plymouth, with Janice Luckin, Hawera, and Shirley Skelton, Waitara, as bridesmaids. Best man was Jeff Gardiner, New Plymouth, with groomsmen Glen Spedding, New Plymouth, and Robert Thorne, New Plymouth. Future home, New Plymouth. (Norman Squire-Terry Finnerty).

Left:
RICKERBY—TOWNSEND.
At St Andrew's Presbyterian Church, New Plymouth, Rachel, third daughter of Mr and Mrs M. Townsend, New Plymouth, to Neville Jack, second son of Mr and Mrs K. Rickerby, New Plymouth. Matron of honour was Beryl Ward, sister of the bride, New Plymouth, with Pam Prestley, New Plymouth, as bridesmaid. Best man was Lewis Townsend, brother of the bride, New Plymouth, and Rex Clement, New Plymouth, was groomsman. Future home, New Plymouth. (Norman Squire-Terry Finnerty).

HOLY TRINITY CHURCH

The congregation at the Holy Trinity Church recently staged their annual fair which was well patronised, the main hall being packed out with customers eager to help a good cause.

This gala wasn't particularly spectacular, but it was a well organised and most-enjoyable event, blessed, thank goodness, with more than its share of sunshine. There seemed to be plenty of activity all the time. Well done, Normanby.

RIGHT—The junior Maori group performed particularly well.

BELOW—The ponies were popular, with Bernadette Robinson on Shandy and Phillip Kahui in charge.

CENTRE RIGHT—Patricia Wipani, Sheryl Watson and Karen Mathison stop for our cameraman.

NORMANBY SPECTACULAR

RIGHT—Len Wellington and Des Schriber make a record attempt with the saw.
BELOW—Ever heard of the three wise monkeys? Well these are seven of the same family. They were just lazing and enjoying the Normanby gala. CENTRE—One of the two Hawera marching teams to give a performance—not too bad either. BOTTOM

FANTASTIC GALA AT SPOTSWOOD COLLEGE

AN EYE ON THINGS

We caught Margaret Zimmerman surveying the vegetable animals at the Kaimiro calf judging day recently.

N.P. CYCLING CLUB PRESENTATIONS

Nearly $600 worth of trophies were presented to members of the New Plymouth Amateur Road Cycling Club at their annual presentation, held this year at the club's headquarters at Kawaroa Bungalow. Trophies were presented by the president's wife, Mrs Yvonne Scott, and also by Beverly Mitchell.

Y.W.C.A. GOLDEN JUBILEE

The New Plymouth Y.W.C.A. celebrated its golden jubilee recently with an afternoon tea at the Residential Club. Celebrations were completed with a dinner at the Y.W.C.A., Powderham Street, where the guest speaker was the N.Z. president of Y.W., Mrs Shrimpton. ABOVE—Part of the crowd gathered to join in the festivities. RIGHT—The jubilee cake, made by Mrs Joss of Wellington, formerly of New Plymouth. BELOW LEFT—Mrs Voss was the first resident at the original club in Powderham Street, 50 years ago. Pictured is president Mrs C. Pulford presenting her with a floral shoulder spray. BELOW RIGHT—Molly Millar, Vera Low and Nesta Coleman enjoy a good old natter over tea and celebratory cake.

Hansel and Gretel

Heavy Shift

The old fairy tale of 'Hansel and Gretel' was chosen as the Inglewood Dramatic Society's latest production. Producer Mary Boekman may be justly proud of the end result, which we thought was excellent.

This large transformer was recently transported from Tarahua Road Power sub-station to the Power Project and the height of the load necessitated the use of two Power Board employees to lift lines.

MARRIED

CELEBRATIONS

KAMIRO CALF DAY

Kaimiro (towards the mountain from Egmont Village) recently saw the annual calf judging at the school, and a fine day it turned out to be for all concerned.

RIGHT—Musing over the Master and Miss Kaimiro drawings were Peter Gladding and Ross Johnston.

BELOW RIGHT—And they reckon women yak! These fathers were thoroughly enjoying the afternoon.

FOUR GENERATIONS

ODDS AND ENDS

GALA DAY AT FRANKLEY SCHOOL
